5. After feeding the inputs, the solution shall have to get the inputs of the following current status (after creating the Notification link) of the employee in the list updated by PD section and the current section of the employee, so that, as per the status of the employee and the date range, the non availability flag has to be created for the particular employee and that particular employee has to be excluded from the list generation as per the input date range.
  1. EL – Date range
  2. ML- Date range
  3. Other Kind of leave - Date range
  4. Any Training Session attended by the employee – Date range
  5. Exemption requested Staff / sections – Date range
  6. Deputation to other departments

6. After feeding the inputs and the updated status of the employees, the application shall generate the randomized separate list of staff including the Reserve List from the available list of Officer or Staff list maintained in the Database, for each Type of Duty based on the above mentioned inputs given by the MCD-Admin.
  - * While generating the Inspection duty list (other districts), the staff should not be allotted to their native districts.

7. The solution should maintain a separate Past complete Duty History of each employee in the following ways,
  - a) Count and Type of Examination, for which the duty attended.
  - b) Total count of the duties attended in a year.
  - c) Districts for which the employee has been allotted. Etc., and other complete history as per the customization.

8. After completing every examination, the list of staff who attended the duty has to be manually updated by the staff in MCD login.(to update whether a staff from the reserve list has attended the duty in order to update the duty count of that particular staff)

9. Following reports shall be generated.
  - Previous Examination – Lists .
  - Moffusil List.
  - Chennai List.
  - Number of times (Overall) and
  - Individual report year wise / monthwise.

Conditions and Requirements in randomized generation of the Duty List:

1. While generating the randomized list, for each particular employee, previous duty history of that employee has to be considered in the following scenarios.
  - The staff who has been allotted to the particular district in the previous 3 recruitments examination duty, should not be allotted to the same district in the current list generation.
  - The type of examination duty should not be repeated Eg., If a staff has been deputed to OMR examination, the next preference should be given to the CBT examination, similarly for a male, if the past examination duty is Inspection, the next preference should be given to the Truck Duty.
  - Least count of duties attended by the employee to be taken utmost priority for main list. While generating staff list, History will be considered so if the staff has least number of duty count, they should be given first preference while generating the list.

Note:

The said scenarios are subject to vary from time to time according to the requirements and the solution should be adaptable to consider all the scenarios in generation of the randomized duty list, as per the time to time scenarios, from the available staff list in the database.

2. Repeated allotment of the same employee name in the list has to be avoided (including reserve list).
3. Chennai Inspection duty condition should be fine-tuned to not repeat the same staff for same session.
4. Repeated allocation of same staff in a same batch for duties has to be avoided. Rotation has to be followed for batch allocation of staff for duties.(history of batch wise duties should be considered and shuffling has to be done every time).

5. Shuffling shall be done irrespective of the Seniority. However, Shuffling shall be done randomly (not as per seniority) and the Output randomized list shall be printed in the following order of seniority.

Joint Secretary
Deputy Secretary
Under Secretary, Account Officer
Section officer, Librarian, Assistant Account Officer
Assistant section officer,
Assistant section officer cum programmer
